

I am writing about the problem with Low Power FM broadcasting. My family and I listen to K-Love on 91.1 FM in Denver, Colorado. This radio station serves my family and my community by broadcasting news updates and by providing communication that is community-based and gives information about becoming more patient and tolerant of community differences. If K-Love is eliminated by LPFM broadcasting, many of us in this community will lose much community based communication involving volunteer opportunities and ways to serve our community. K-Love serves the public interest by providing a strong network of community love and support. We need more community based networks to make our world safer and more hopeful.
